Sirius Earns the 2021 CRN IoT Innovators Award

Sirius recognized for innovative IoT solutions for the third year in a row

San Antonio, TX—26 October 2021—Sirius Computer Solutions, Inc. (Sirius), a leading national IT solutions integrator, announced that CRN, a brand of The Channel Company, recently bestowed on Sirius its 2021 IoT Innovators Award. This marks the third year in a row that Sirius has received this distinguished award for its Internet of Things (IoT) solutions.

The fifth annual IoT Innovators Award recognizes the top 25 solution providers and systems integrators across North America that operate on the vanguard of IoT innovation and development. The companies on the list realize the vast potential of IoT and integrate pioneering solutions into their everyday operations, according to a release from CRN.

“The winners of CRN’s 2021 IoT Innovators Award have set themselves apart by providing industry-leading IoT solutions for a diverse range of challenges,” said Blaine Raddon, CEO of The Channel Company. “The awarded organizations represent a distinguished group of IT trailblazers that have delivered transformative solutions to help their customers exceed the competition and establish themselves as the industry leaders in their respective markets.”

Upon hearing the news, Jill Klein, Sirius senior leader of IoT and CompTIA IoT Advisory Council vice chair, said: “What a great honor to be recognized by CRN for IoT for the third year in a row. At Sirius, we partner with clients to maximize their data’s value by innovating with intention, and today more than ever, IoT is a major catalyst to improve operations, create new revenue streams, and provide safer workplaces. We’re thrilled that our hard work is making an impact, and look forward to building on our connected products portfolio to further accelerate solution adoption this year and beyond.”
